UFCW Canada at Caribana

UFCW Canada National President Wayne Hanley joined about a million revellers at the Caribana festival the first weekend of August. Caribana is the largest Caribbean cultural celebration outside of the Caribbean. President Hanley is pictured during the parade along Toronto's lakeshore with Steve Penalzoza, chief steward at The Bay's RSCL Eastern Big Ticket warehouse in Rexdale and vice-president of UFCW Canada Local 1993.

As a sponsor of the 15-time "band of the year" winning Louis Saldenah Mas-K Club, UFCW Canada members and families joined in the huge masquerade party. Now in its 41st year, Caribana brings an estimated $250- to $300-million to the city's economy, largely in the hospitality industry that employs so many UFCW Canada members.

"Caribana is a world class event that draws thousands of working people from many different cultural backgrounds,"
